Sherman Kent was host to DDI CTs for one day during the week of 26 July. The CTs attended Mr. Kent's morning staff meeting and were introduced to the Board of National Estimates. Afterwards, they sat in on two meetings of the Board, where forthcoming NIEs on Peru and Eastern Europe were discussed. The CTs then had individual conferences with working members of the staff of ONE including several CTs who are on the staff. [REDACTED] executive officer of ONE, then chaired a wrap-up discussion for the CTs. 25X1A of our candidates, especially where we have two or more nominees for a single program, and where we usually are allotted only one slot.

Only two nominations have been received for the Defense Intelligence School's Advanced Intelligence course. Training officers have been advised that the deadline which expired on 2 August has been extended. We are hoping that additional nominations will be made, especially from the DDI.

Attached is a breakdown of new tuition rates at the Foreign Service Institute for 1966. There is an increase of approximately eleven per cent in cost for all programs. Of special interest is a fourteen per cent increase on area training.

for this purpose and has selected the Craig Reader. He will choose materials to be purchased with the machines this week and we should be able to have the machines in operation in early September.

CT Orientation to Intelligence Course. Based on objective tests of the course content, the July 1965 class received the following ratings: 12 outstanding, 48 strong, 4 proficient, and 1 adequate. The test results for this class appear to be slightly higher than the January class, a group comparable in size. Several factors combine to make for a more effective course, despite the difficulties of administering it at Headquarters with a limited staff. Among these factors are: (a) the first extensive use of a self-review device which some students claim helped them extensively, and (b) having the class for two weeks instead of one week gave more time for overall review, individual counseling, and better course organization.

Project USEFUL. A letter of invitation to the Joint Chiefs of Staff for Project USEFUL No. 12, scheduled to take place from 18-29 October, has been prepared and forwarded for the DCI's signature. The first tentative draft of the schedule has been prepared and forwarded to Mr. [REDACTED] who has been designated as action officer for the presentation of the course.
